INSECT RESISTANCE MANAGEMENT

For resistance management, Andersons Golf Products Insecticide III contains a Group 1B insecticide/ acaricide. Any insect/mite population may contain individuals naturally resistant to Andersons Golf Products Insecticide III and other Group 1B insecticides/acaricides. The resistant individuals may dominate the insect/ mite population if this group of insecticides/acaricides are used repeatedly in the same site. Appropriate resistance-management strategies should be followed.

To delay insecticide/acaricide resistance, take the following steps:

- Rotate the use of Andersons Golf Products Insecticide III or other Group 1B insecticides/acaricides within a growing season, or among growing seasons, with different groups that control the same pests.
- Adopt an integrated pest management program for insecticide/acaricides use that includes scouting, uses historical information related to pesticide use, record keeping, and which considers cultural, biological and other chemical control practices.
- Monitor after application for unexpected target pest survival. If the level of survival suggests the presence of resistance, consult with your local university specialist or certified pest control advisor.
- Contact your local extension specialist or certified crop advisors for any additional pesticide resistance-management and/or IPM recommendations for the specific site and pest problems in your area.
- For further information or to report suspected resistance contact The Andersons, Inc. at 1-800-757-8951.
